General Notes

* POWER:

Inverters give limited back-up electric power (usually enough for one or two lights and a laptop, for example).

Generators usually give full electric power but can be noisy. Some hotels with a generator will use it only at certain hours (usually to cover evening load shedding/power outages.)

(However, these days there are only occasional, unscheduled power outages, so this might not be an issue.)

* HOT WATER:

Solar hot water gives limited hot water but, during the winter months; this is usually only for a few hours in the afternoon.

Solar combined with electric should give hot water in the afternoons and at night when there is no load shedding/power outages.

24 hours hot water should in theory give hot water all the time but be warned, even this may be unpredictable in some more modest guesthouses.

* RATES:

Prices, especially in the small guest houses are subject to inflation or fluctuations (often on the whim of the particular staff member one makes the booking with) so the prices in this Guide cannot be guaranteed.

Taxes: Where the rates exclude the 13% VAT and the 10% service charge, these additions are cumulative (i.e. add the VAT first and then the service charge on top).

When making a booking, always ask for a discount, mention if you are studying at the White Gomba (RYI), or if you are staying for an extended period of time. It doesn't hurt to ask, and many of these Hotels/Guest Houses will offer a discount.

Monastery Guest Houses

Dondrub Guest House

This guest house is within the premises of Khenpo Tsultrim Gyatso Rinpoche's nunnery. It is up Phulbari for about five minutes, and then there is a shortcut on the right (a ten minute walk from RYI). The meditation hall is available morning and evenings and you can enjoy vegetarian meals with the nuns for 250 NRP. There is a nice hangout room but there is no separate restaurant within the premises.

Services and features:

Meditation Hall

Free WiFi

Optional meal with the nuns (practice your Tibetan!)

Rates: (Dondrub Guest House might give more discount for RYI students and staff, please check with them.)
